

Ebook, available from Amazon on Dec 20, 2014, www.emeraldpademelonpress.com.

The story of a conspiracy created by forces close to the government of President Joseph Kabila, who was in charge of security when President Laurent Kabila was assassinated in 1997, and who is president of a country in which he does not sleep, ever.

All witnesses at the trial of 20 good men pointed to Colonel Zeeman as the source of information. Colonel Zeeman is Superintendent (Counter Terrorism) at South African Police Service, Organized Crime.

Together with other cops, Colonel Zeeman represented himself as a senior government official offering training and certification in an anti-rhino-poaching camp in Limpopo. They used SA police resources to lure 19 good men into a trap where they were arrested in a hail of bullets on Feb 5, 2013.

Lies disseminated through international media demanded Etienne Kabila give himself up, and he did on Feb 8, 2013, in Capetown

The lies of three South African cops put 20 men in jail for 661 days, charged with “military assistance and conspiracy to commit murder”.

Colonel Zeeman’s fabricated charges are that 20 good men with no military background, no criminal record, planned a coup d’etat against Congo while they were working hard to feed their families in Johannesburg and Capetown.

On Nov 28, 2014

-15 men were declared innocent of all charges and released

-5 remain in jail, of which 1 was released on bail the next day

Twenty good men, most university graduates: one on vacation from Congo, one on vacation from USA:

1. Computer technician, Chadrien Kabuka Lubagaba Kilele
2. Computer technician, Mukiti Kilele
3. Musician, supermarket manager Angbongi Tenda Mulomba Nelka
4. Accounting graduate, human resources professional Musasa Tshibangu
5. American college graduate living in Delaware: James Kazongo
6. Congo honors graduate, academic Pastor David Muyembe Bakajika
7. Small business owner, former medical student, South African university graduate Patrick Lunula Masikini
8. Simon Mbuyi Mukuna,
9. James Jacob Mapimi
10. Jean-Paul Tambwe
11. Communications graduate, DRC-Congo Govt Mining inspector Olivier Amuli-Safari
12. John Malako
13. Alain Yoka Maniema
14. Jean-Pierre Lerulwaba
15. University graduate Eric Zabinga Muboto
16. Apolinaire Mahele
17. Felly Basila
18. Congo commerce graduate Yangu Joe Ngesi
19. Kakesa Mutombo.
20. Son of assassinated President Laurent Kabila, economics graduate Etienne Kabila

Eric Zabinga Muboto speaks, Sep 2014

I am one of 20 Congolese abducted on Feb 4, 2013 and highly publicized after 24 hours by South African police.

We were portrayed as terrorist and rebel. Not only were we kidnapped, and nationally and internationally humiliated by the same South African thugs police, also those thugs gave us bad rap with prison authorities, in order to torture us physically and morally.

www.emeraldpademelonpress.com

Nowhere in the world is an accused sentenced to life before he can actually stand for trial. Yet in South Africa we were sentenced to life the day we were incarcerated in Feb 2013: a year and half before our trial.

On Feb 7, 2013 when we were taken to prison, we have already noticed in our single cell door a sticker with each one of our names, in each respective door, our names, our prison numbers, length of sentence. All of us had length of sentence says Life. Our case is exceptional to the rule of law.

In South Africa, I want to tell the whole world that our arrest was preposterous, fabricated, scripted and played by South African police thugs, who worked for illicit interest economic gain to satisfy some individual to achieve their hidden agenda.

The way we are being mistreated and abused seems like we were some junta's private prisoners; we are being mistreated worse than murderer and rapist.

Let's emphasize more on our gangster police. Lt Col Noel Zeeman 23 years in intelligence, Col Johan Jensen Van Vureen 23 years in intelligence service, Col Francois Daniel Conradea aka Joe Bressler 28 years in intelligence, Nicholas aka Nic, Mr A 5 years in South African police.

These are the master minders of our arrest and principal witness in for the state for our trial and yet these morons are incapable to demonstrate any crime that we were committed, but we were falsely accused of foreign military assistance, terrorism, rebels, mercenary.

They can't even tell you what what are the neighboring countries of DRC, one said on witness stand it's Cameroon, Gabon, another said that Zaire and DRC-Congo are different countries. That's the level of intelligence in South African police. No difference between Boko Haram kidnapping girls and South African police kidnapping 19 Congolese. Then they libeled us on international media.